

Margaret O Moyer

Fracking in the Delaware River Basin would endanger the source of drinking water for millions of people. It is a risk too great to take, in these days of impending water shortages. What could possibly replace the river as a source of drinking water?