

Barbara Salzman

I congratulate the Commission that the new regulations will ban fracking for fossil fuels in the Delaware River Basin (DRB). However, I am concerned that these new regulations are not complete and leave our clean water at risk. I ask that there is a complete ban on the entire process of fracking including banning the use of the basin's grease water for fracking and banning the return of liquid produced waste from fracking done outside the DRB. Both the production process and the waste process should simply be banned. It is not the mission for the Delaware River Basin Commission to approve mining activity elsewhere but it is their obligation to protect the water source used by millions of our citizens and the pristine environment of the Delaware River Basin. I encourage you to represent the will of the citizens and lead the way into our children's future.