

Joe Lowenbraun

Banning fracking is one of the most important things we can do to mitigate the effects of global warming and sustain a healthy life. We don't need 20th century solutions for 21st century problems.