

Mark Rotenberg

Fracking is death. It's as simple as that. All fracking ever done has resulted in the poisoning of water and the poisoning of land. It has, also, resulted in triggering earthquakes. Who, in their right mind, would ever endorse such a process? Who, in their right mind, would ever agree to poison water and land? Who, in their right mind, would ever grant the right to frack to any organization or individual? It's not very complicated if you are in your right mind. Don't allow or support fracking. Put your efforts into renewable energy and deny anyone the ability to frack.