

Victoria Oltarsh

Fracking destroys the environment. At this time, doing this when we can witness climate change with the naked human eye is irrational and unintelligent to proceed. Fracking damages people's individual water sources, but even more important for the environment, ecosystems of rivers, streams and waterways are destroyed by this barbaric practice. Big mistake. How can you live with yourself? There is so much proof. Why are you trying to cover it up?