Americans no longer want reliance on dirty fossil fuels-in any capacity, there is no excuse with technological advancements everyone should have clean water, fracking pollutes and wastes our water, there are renewable remedies to our consumer-demands which are environmental-friendly and anyone who can comment should be against fracking. Is destroying lives for products man's authority to begin with? We need clean, green energy solutions, not dirty old useless processes that do not "create jobs" long-term, and cost the U.S. greatly long-term while extinguishing valuable lives that matter in the process. Until there is a safe non-threatening manner to exhume minerals, there should be no fracking.
