

Dennis Trembly

The dangerous health consequences of hydraulic fracturing are proven. Water running from a tap which will catch fire if lit is obviously dangerous. Nobody really believes that this water is safe to drink or to use for bathing, general washing, or food irrigation. even though some people will say so. Consequences to the general environment are compounded evils. Fracking should be banned everywhere, and as soon as possible.