I'm not really sure what changes the DRBC is proposing regarding public hearings, but it is my understanding that these proposed changes will limit public participation and input on Environmental Impacts and shift power away from the commissioners, i.e. the approval made by the DRBC ED for the Gibbstown LNG Terminal Project. This was a debacle and highlighted the importance of the Freedom of Information Act. We need more transparency, not less and the DRBC ED should not have so much power. Who are these proposals supposed to help? Certainly not the public.
