Diane DiFante

All proposed rule changes should go through public review. The goal should be transparency and be subject to public input.