

Clifford Gerrells

Being a former guide on the Bighorn River this action is horrendous with the possibility of ruining not only the wildlife and plants along the river but also the livelihood of the many people who work these rivers. Enough is enough, the waters need not be polluted for some company to profit by discharging harmful chemicals into our landscape.