

Morgan Lee

There is no reason to discharge this water contain it and treat it prior to discharge.

The area has plenty of topography to contain it in a reservoir and treat it. A cattail bed would effectively treat this water and render it safe or discharge.

Evaporation as well would be another and better option.