I am very strongly against the dumping of oil field waste water into Boysen reservoir. That place is another kind of home to my family and I. I grew up spending every weekend on the lake. Potentially poisoning the thousands of people who frequent that wonderful place is criminal. Not only that, but putting so many ecosystems in the lake as well as the Wind River in jeopardy could further impact the Wyoming way of life we try so hard to cherish and preserve. I can't imagine the devastation of so many people when the first case of cancer linked to this dumping of hazardous water prevents families from taking the weekends they work so hard for at Boysen Lake. I can't imagine not being able to take my children to some of my favorite places in the state for boating, water sports, and fishing.

The fact that this has even been approved and is going further to where it is very possible is horrific to me.
