

robert coleman

A reputable company would not have purchased a company that was not doing things legally,
And, a real reputable company would not want to buy something that would not be profitable, doing business the right way.