

Candlewood Suites Sheridan

We have worked with the Ramaco office both as a partner in business and as a neighboring company and have seen them invest over the last several years in the local community and economy. It has been made clear how invested they are in the continued health and prosperity of Sheridan, its businesses, and its citizens. We are excited to see them develop new uses for coal and technology at their new iCAM facility, which could create the opportunity to attract and retain highly talented professionals in Sheridan. The coal mined from the Brook Mine to supply that facility has the potential to further establish coal mines, one of the lifebloods of Wyoming, as not only the source of energy it is but as a source of essential technology that could withstand the ever-changing political climate.
