The Brook Mine and Ramaco Company is an exciting and innovative improvement to the Sheridan, Wyoming area. With the research, technology, and excellent opportunities for the Sheridan area residents and Wyoming population in general, this mine will be an immense chance for success. The Sheridan area has been known for its mining for many years but with Ramaco's approach, this will revolutionize mining and its applications for years to come.

I truly hope that carbon research could also be used for developing and manufacturing PPE products in this country.
