

Colin Ferriman

To whom it may concern I am writing to express my opposition to the Brooks Mine. Global climate change is a very real and very pressing problem that needs to be addressed both on a global and local level. Locally, the Brooks Mine represents a significant increase in air and atmospheric pollution compared to leaving the Acme Land as is. This will exasperate Global Climate change. Wyoming needs to look pass coal and towards the future. Should this land be developed it should be in a conscientious manner that focuses on renewable materials, and energy sources.
