

Emilee Tucker

C & H has been operating for 5 years with no environmental violations and have had numerous studies conducted by U of A with no issues. Rules should not be changed after a permit is issued and recommendations should not be treated as requirements. Standards and rulings should be based on science, not emotion, and be based on the findings of non-biased experts in the field. This ruling infringes on the right to farm and sets precedence for other farms and small businesses to be impacted negatively in the future.