

Abel Price

The Buffalo river was designated as the nations first national river in order to protect it for future generations. As members of the state, it's our turn to step up and see this protection through. The impact of the proposed farm will not be as obvious as a damn, but requires our action nonetheless. Nutrients in the water affect microbe populations that can effect water quality in ways such as biodiversity, ecology, and aesthetics of the river. Let's keep the Natural State natural.