Your fish and wildlife department needs to resolve the significant problems with your current wolf killing regime. The issues with ranchers needs to be resolved in a better manner and not immediately jump to kill a wolf due to livestock depredation. A lot of the problems would not happen if the ranchers were being more responsible

Now is not the appropriate time to consider post-delisting management i.e. hunting, trapping. You need to remember that wolves are an apex predator and a keystone species and have a place in our ecosystem.

Your states governor is on the right track! You need to listen to him and the science of wolf management!
