

Randi Kyle

I see that bringing the wolves back has people hating each other. Is this another plot by the Democrats to destroy the country? No longer a country to be proud of, the liberals and racist Democrats have ruined it for all. Totally embarrassed to call myself an American. The out of state special interests groups don't own land where these wolves are being brought back so they lose nothing. Only the ranchers and conservationists suffer from decisions made by idiots that live in big cities. Wolves hunt 24/7/365. I wonder how the ungulates like these idiots decisions of having to run night and day to survive? Not enough voices for the ungulates, conservationists or true land owners as the rich buys the law of the land. Voting doesn't matter just how much money you going to donate. Planet is starving but lets kill off the food source just so some city living idiot can be happy. If the herd needs thinned you let conservationists do the job so they can eat and save other resources of the planet. Not rocket science pretty simple if common sense is applied. Wolves only in national parks. There are far too many 2 legged wolves on this planet running wild. Besides the Indians kill only the 400 class bulls whenever and however so the conservationists never get that opportunity talk about lack of ethics on the tribes part. Fish rotting in their nets or no longer to be found and elk meat going to waste just so they can sell the head to a liberal owned resort or casino. The fantasizing about werewolves and vampires needs to end. Maybe work on the 400,000 acres of public land that isn't accessible because it was allowed to become landlocked. Either reduce taxes or license fees because these lands are not available to public, only to those that have it landlocked. Their own private hunting reserve and the state agencies are allowing it to happen.
