

Devin Leenhouts

the supposed numbers are way too low of our game herds are not enough to support the recovery numbers deer and elk herds are already having tough times and since most of the packs are in the north east the limited moose population is taking pretty good hit with ticks and over predators