

Heather Bartlett

Wolves are part of our northwest heritage. They have come into threat due to many factors, including the loss of habitat and the increasing human population. We want to preserve these beautiful animals for generations to come. They deserve protection. I am opposed to any hunting or trapping of wolves. Over and over, when it comes to human interests versus animal survival, the animals lose. Let's buck that trend in Washington.