

John Magart

Wolves are out of control. We can't have this many on the landscape and have anything else. They kill everything they are around and people will be on the menu soon. Have a few wolves but they have to be controlled more than any other predator out there. They do kill just for the fun of it. These aren't even native wolves. They are hybrids and previous wolf studies and information by WSU were false and skewed to fit the wolf lovers agenda. They need serious control now!