

Ann Woltjen

I would like to state that I think that wolves should have priority over cattle grazing. Wolves belong to all people. Cattle belong to private citizens who are in the business of making money. Federal and state lands should not be used for cattle grazing. Wolves should be able to live unmolested on federal and state lands. Furthermore, I do not believe wolves should ever be hunted for sport, no matter what their vulnerable status is. Sports hunting is barbaric and should be banned. Hunting for food is a different matter. Also wildlife agencies should not be solely in the business of supplying hunters with animals to hunt such as elk and deer. Wildlife management should be about maintaining healthy ecosystems allowing natural predator/prey relationships to find their balance.
