

Stephanie Taylor

I urge the WDFW to resolve the significant problems associated with its current wolf management, including incremental lethal removal tactics without the requirement of non-lethal measures.

With a vulnerable population of just over 100 individuals throughout the entire state, and an increase in lethal management as a first option, post-delisting management which includes hunting is wildly inappropriate.