

NANCY AVOLESE

I ask that Washington state continue to look for non-lethal methods in regards to wolf control and that both the ranchers and the wolf advocates come together creating new reasonable approaches. I do not believe that livestock should be grazing on public lands to the detriment of wolves. We must find ways to reduce these conflicts. I also believe that ranchers should not be permitted to shoot wolves if they have not utilized and correctly implemented, non-lethal methods for deterring wolves. We are all living creatures on this Earth and I believe no matter the species, we have our own role as an entire ecosystem.
