

Chan Bailey

Any adequate and realistic post-recovery plan must include wolf population control in the forms of managed hunting and trapping. Livestock owners, post recovery, must be allowed to protect their property using any means necessary - including lethal options.