

Sue Quigley

The plan on Wolf management should be based on the best science available and using data that is current and provided by non-partisan non-biased scientific reputable sources. It should not be based on one wealthy rancher's influence. Wolves were a part of this world before we even got here, and are a necessary part of the ecosystem and they should not be delisted until their populations are at a healthy balance.