Do you have general comments about the scope of Washington's updated wolf conservation and management plan?

As a person who has lived on rural land in eastern Washington and continues to visit, continued growth and stabilization of the wolf population is important to me. While useful to think ahead for planning, we are not yet to a post-recovery stage in numbers and spread of wolf packs in the whole of the state. I wish to speak in favor of encouraging livestock owners to be more responsible in caring for their animals, particularly in wild landscapes.
