Do you have general comments about the scope of Washington's updated wolf conservation and management plan?

I would really hope that through the entire post-recovery process we get to a point where wolves are treated just like all our other large non-threatened carnivores. They should be hunted, either under a general season with a quota (preferred) or under a special tag style draw hunt. People should be allowed to employ lethal actions when property is endangered, not just life. And at the same time we should be celebrating that the ESA works, conservation works, and we have a new large mammal on the landscape. It's presence certainly adds to the wild character of our public lands.
