

Lisa Perry

What is your gender?

Female

Age?

60

County (or Counties) of Primary Residence?

Westchester

Residential setting:

Suburban

Do you identify yourself as any of the following?

Environmentalist

Outdoor Recreationist

WDFW has identified a list of impact topics to include in the Plan/EIS. Impact topics are a means of organizing the discussion of issues and analysis of impacts. Impact topics can be thought of as chapter or section headings in the Plan/EIS.

Please review this list and add other topics, or items that fit under these headings.

Please check the topics you view as most important.

Wolf conservation and monitoring

Information and education

Research

Please list other topics here. The next page provides space for general comments on the scope of the plan.

Protection of America's natural resources for Americans

Do you have general comments about the scope of Washington's updated wolf conservation and management plan?

Current practices in the state of Washington are appalling. Public land is utilized as a private resource for ranchers when we - the American public from across the Country - and others internationally expect our local governments to think on a broader scale. While you may work in the state the resources in Washington are not yours alone. The wildlife and wild places of Washington are part of a larger fabric of America. Efforts must be taken to reign in the abuse of public lands and true conservation and protection efforts must be put in place. Your Governor could have had a real shot as a political candidate except from his atrocious record on wildlife. The entire country and beyond are watching in disbelief as you waste the beauty of your state.