Public Land Grazing Allotments

Do you have general comments about the scope of Washington's updated wolf conservation and management plan?

When taking into account grazing allotments on public land, those using the land for grazing should need to sign a waiver accepting the risk associated with utilization of this public land to include the potential loss of livestock due to natural predators.

Reason for this is this use of public land is no different then a person recreating on the land where the Government, State or citizens are not liable for recreational injuries or death while on the land.
