To whom it may concern,

I am a young Alaskan who relies on the salmon population of Prince William Sound to earn a livelihood. I find the idea of relaxing regulations on oil being transported through the Prince William Sound very concerning. I encourage the DEC to maintain the current level of regulation. The excellent safety record since 1989 is a testament to how well the system is working. Please consider all of the Prince William Sound user groups during this upcoming review cycle.

Sincerely,

Max Durtschi
