Chena Slough was heavily treated for 4 years. I live on the slough near Persinger bridge. The slough looks worse than ever, mares tail, aquatic grasses, and moss have completely choked the slough the first summer after the 4th year of treatment. Also, 4 years ago, there were only 3 elodea infestations...now there are nearly a dozen sites, and big ones, ie. Harding and Birch. Face it...the effort is lost. Elodea will be like Bird Vetch and Sweet Flag Clover. It's here to stay, quit wasting our money.
