

Tammie Beatty

Putting this into place now is only going to make food security harder in Alaska with all the current and proposed shortages. We need to work harder to open food security up not penalize the ones trying to help out in these times. We are making it all but impossible for small farmers to survive. Please follow Maine in food security and not other states.