

Blane Thingelstad

I believe nuclear, specifically micro reactors, are key to the future of energy in the US and even globally. The US Navy has proven for more than 50 years that people can exist for long periods of time in close proximity to micro reactors without harm to people or the environment. Why would we not consider a steady, reliable, green, safe, portable form of energy?

Kind Regards.