

Katharina Redfern

does there really need to be limits on how much someone can sell? If they can produce it out of their homes safely why does how much revenue even come into play?