

Hillary Palmer

It is imperative for Alaskans that dredging operations be permitted as these activities enable critical lifeline supply chains to function. Without dredging at the Port of Alaska, our state cannot receive food, medications, construction supplies and fuel in adequate quantities to continue normal function.