

Peter Butler

Trash collection prices offer little incentive to reduce solid waste. The cost-per gallon for a small container is much higher than a larger container. The costs do not reflect the environmental and health costs shared by society. Increase the cost of trash collection to induce people to recycle more.