

Lee Mehrkens

This report is very light on any data that describes the success/failure of our current plastic recycling efforts or ways to improve it in any meaningful way. Your newfound fascination with organics processing obscures the need to fix plastic recycling problems or attempt new approaches altogether in that area.