

Juli Albright

I love the idea of charging for take out utensils and packaging. Also, it would be ideal for the air and the roads if there were fewer trucks making trips down the same areas. It would help a lot of people if restaurants donated their leftover food