I recycle, compost and bring my paints, batteries, etc. to the Recycle Center. But I'm amazed at how few people compost much less recycle. My teen grandkids lived with me for a year after their dad was evicted (they have no mom). I got them to put their cans and bottles in recycle but they thought it was "dumb" to recycle and reuse plastic bags and to compost their pizza and restaurant boxes. They had been taught nothing. I think all these things should be taught, and expected of, in schools. I would also like to see compost collected at the curb like garbage and recycles.
