

Amanda Koehler

I compost in my backyard but strongly believe every resident should have curbside composting for composting to be widely used. I can't compost everything that's compostable in my backyard. I think mandating compostable single use plastics is smart as well. Perhaps a tax credit or something to relieve the cost on small businesses. I also suggest pushing for more cities to allow chickens - they can eat a lot of our veggie and fruit scraps.