

Steve Brandt

Wild rice is too uniquely a Minnesota resource and too important a part of the state's heritage to allow a relaxed standard for sulfates in wild rice waters. Minnesotans want a standard that allows no increase in sulfates, even if below 10 ppm.