

K. Feilmeyer

This is the 21st century and we know to use science and data to promote better stewardship of our land and water. Wild rice (manoomin) is sacred to the Anishinaabe and an ecological indicator for water quality. We must ensure the MPCA does not allow mines and other industries to discharge uncontrolled pollution for another half a century. Let's do better Minnesota; for today and for future generations.