

Drew Hempel

wild rice is a sacred food to the indigenous peoples before the Europeans invaded. So protecting wild rice is a top priority for the state since Europeans have only been here a few hundred years in numbers while indigenous peoples have been here for thousands of years - probably over 10,000 years.