

Christina Lincoln

Strong and consistent enforcement of Minnesota's federally-approved wild rice sulfate standard of 10 parts per million is essential to protect ecosystems and human health.