

Marissa Linnett

We all know who is polluting our waters. It's not the homeowner, it's not the local restaurant, it's the giant business running your town. It's the corporation with 20,000 employees who turn blind eyes to get their paycheck. It's millions of people not doing their job to protect the land. If we don't shut businesses down when they aren't performing at the standard we need, we will not be drinking safe water, our kids will not swim, and our lives will continue to plunge into madness. The world I have lived in thus far has shown me that elders value money over life. Please prove me wrong. Shut down the people harming our environment.