

James Rossow

These feedlots need to be seriously regulated overseen and inspected for compliance. Farmers need all the help they can get to understand best practices. As a group they are not always eager to comply with regulations for the common good. Would it was not so, but I believe it is so. I see it all the time.