

Caron Gibson

Since the Mississippi River begins in Minnesota it is imperative that we monitor what ends up in this great river. It affects those communities and environments south of here that we need to consider.